AMERICAN SHIP SPEEDS TO AID SINKING STEAMER

Captain Fried of Heroic Fame May Effect Another Rescue

BULLETIN
New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Radio Corporation of America picked up an SOS call this afternoon from the steam trawler Fillett saying that she was sinking fast and expected to be bale to keep afloat only 15 minutes after its message was sent.
The Radio Corporation received another message from the steamer America, saying that she had sighted the Fillett, which was listing badly, and was rushing to her assistance.
The America earlier today sent a wireless to The Associated Press saying that she was hurrying to the assistance of the Dutch steamer Celeno, in distress in a northwest gale. It was apparently on this first errand of mercy that the America sighted the Fillett.

The American is a ship of the Hawaiian American line. Because of the similarity of names it was at first believed that the steamer going to the aid of the Fillett was the United States liner America, which earlier today radioed The Associated Press that it was speeding to the assistance of the Dutch steamer Celeno, in distress in a northwest gale.

Compass bearing given by the American, however, showed that it was only about 200 miles east of New York, whereas the America was some 1,000 miles off New Foundland.

At 2 o'clock the Radio Corporation received word that the American had picked up two life boats with men from the Fillett.

"Trawler seems to be on fire, but American not certain of this," the message concluded.
The coast guard destroyer Perry also went to the aid of the trawler.

S. S. America, 46.10 north latitude, 34.30 west longitude, October 3.—(AP)—Proceeding to Dutch steamship Celeno in distress and sinking in north west gale. High rough sea. Her position doubtful but have bearings on radio compass.
FRIED (Captain)

SAVED BRITISHERS
New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Captain George Fried, now driving his ship, the S. S. America, to the rescue of the crew of the sinking Dutch steamer Celeno, gained wide acclaim when in January of 1926 he superintended the rescue of the captain and 24 members of the crew of the British freighter Antiope.

For three days the President Roosevelt, Captain Fried's command at that time, stood by the sinking ship, launching six lifeboats and losing two members of his crew, before the men on the Antiope were finally rescued. It was during the great storm of 1926 on the north Atlantic during which several boats were sunk and even the big ocean liners were badly battered.

Were Rewarded
Captain Fried and his crew were awarded King George medals by the British government, and Captain Fried the Navy Cross by the United States. On the President Roosevelt's return to New York Fried and his crew were given an ovation seldom accorded merchant seamen. A week of banquets and receptions was climaxed by a reception in Carnegie Hall when Secretary of the Navy Wilbur awarded Captain Fried the Navy Cross.

He was given a gold watch by The Associated Press and made an honorary staff reporter for his forethought in sending bulletins of his rescue efforts to the association, through which they were relayed to the world.

BELOVED AMBOY WOMAN CALLED: RITES THURSDAY

Mrs. Julia Cullar, Who Died Monday, Was Last of Family

(Telegraph Special Service)
Amboy, Ill., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Julia Cullar, who was the wife of the late L. K. Cullar and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Smith, was born in Wayne county, Pennsylvania, March 23, 1855 and passed away at her home in Amboy on the evening of October 1, 1928, after a very short illness, her death coming as a severe shock to the relatives and the many friends. She was the last of her generation of the Smith family, her husband, a daughter, who died in infancy, father, mother, sisters and brother having preceded her in death.

In December of 1927 occurred the passing of her brother, Charles T. Smith, a former coroner of Lee county, leaving her the only surviving member of the family. For many years she was connected with the dry goods department of Gridley Brothers. Her executive ability in business, her zeal for her Baptist church connections, religiously, and her social activities in the Eastern Star and the Woman's Club, endeared her to all in the community who regret her passing and extend sympathy to the surviving relatives in their sorrow.

Mrs. Cullar died as she had lived, full of energy to the last, considerate of her friends and a desire not to be a burden to her family connections. She was survived by nephews and nieces as follows:

J. H. Hughes, Columbus, Ohio; Miss Ruth Smith of Des Plaines, Ill.; Raymond Smith, Greenville, Ohio; Miss Arlene Morris of Chicago; Mrs. G. G. Stuart of Los Angeles, Cal.; Miss Mylette Morris of Santa Barbara, Cal.; Ned Morris of New Carlisle, Ohio; Mrs. Maud McIntyre of Los Angeles, Cal.; and Mrs. Zoe Burns of Boston, Mass.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Baptist church of Amboy and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Kerr. Interment will be made in the Smith family lot in Prairie Repose cemetery.

TOOMBS' PARTNER ADMITS "PADDING" ASSETS OF FIRM

Startling Revelation in the Hearing of Defunct Brokerage Firm

Chicago, Oct. 3.—(AP)—O. R. Daily, vice-president and treasurer of Toombs & Daily, Chicago stock brokerage firm which failed recently, today made a brief confession that he had misstated financial statements of the firm and issued statements exaggerating the assets of the firm by millions of dollars.

His confession was made from the witness stand before a federal referee in bankruptcy which has been investigating the affairs of the defunct firm headed by Roy Toombs, St. Louis and Chicago financier.

Immediately after making the startling statements, Mr. Daily, who is 65 years old, invoked his constitutional rights and declined to answer any questions. He was then excused by the referee, Garfield Charles, who remarked, "There was already sufficient evidence to deal with him in an appropriate way."

Daily's statement was made just after he had turned over $600 of the company's assets to Louis Cohen, counsel for the federal receiver. He turned to the referee asking if he could say a few words.

PLAN BIG RALLY FOR HOOVER IN NEW YORK CITY

Entire Day Will be Devoted to Arousing Enthusiasm

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover's visit to New York City, the home town of the Democratic presidential candidate is to be made the occasion for the biggest Republican rally in the east during this campaign.

The celebration will begin early on the morning of Monday, Oct. 22, with the arrival of the Republican presidential candidate from Washington and will reach its climax in a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden that night with Hoover delivering his sixth major address.

Charles Evans Hughes, once Hoover's colleague in the Harding-Coolidge cabinet and himself the Republican standard bearer in 1916, will share the speaking program with the Presidential nominee, a program, which will consume approximately two hours and be carried to the country over a radio hookup, second only to that in use when Hoover delivered his acceptance address at Palo Alto on August 11.

On Special Train
Hoover will leave the Washington special train on the night of Sunday, Oct. 21, reaching New York early Monday.

Full details of his reception have not yet been worked out. During the day the nominee will confer with Republican workers in the metropolis area and with New York state leaders, including Charles D. Hilles, National Committeeman, and T. Edmund Machold, the new State Chairman, who probably will preside at Madison Square Garden.

While on his trip to Boston, where he is to speak on Monday, Oct. 15 in Mechanics' Hall, the Republican candidate will take occasion to meet with leaders in that state and also will stop over at Hartford, on the way back to Washington to confer with Republican county and state officers in Connecticut.

TRAIN ROBBER RODE RODS TO DETROIT; HELD

Los Angeles Youth is Returned to Canada to Face Charges

Detroit, Oct. 3.—(AP)—William Gibbs, 20, of Los Angeles, who robbed a Canadian National Railway mail car of amounts variously estimated at between $22,000 and $100,000 was being held in Windsor, Ont., today after furnishing authorities with a criminal narrative without parallel in this section.

Gibbs boarded the train at Chatham, Ont., and gaining access to the mail car, held three messengers at bay with a pistol while he looted the registered bags. Then as the engine slowed down for a stop at Prairie siding Gibbs dropped from the mail car, but reboarded the rear coach of the train.

While alarms were raised and a description of the robber sent all along the border, Gibbs was riding in to Windsor on the same train he had robbed.

The train was stopped outside Windsor while crown authorities questioned the crew, but Gibbs sitting on the rods beneath the rear car was not discovered and Gibbs's car was ferried across the Detroit river. Here the young bandit came to grief, for immigration officers were on the lookout for smuggled aliens when the ferry docked and Gibbs was discovered when he came from his hiding place.

The shabbily clad youngster was searched and $6,500 in bank notes was found stuffed in his shirt, while he carried two sealed currency packages containing $10,000 and $6,500 respectively.

NOTORIOUS BANK ROBBER ESCAPES FROM ALA. PRISON

Two Companions Also Made Getaway from Montgomery Jail

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Rob Dickerson, bank robber of notorious reputation and gofer of the Panther Creek Coal Company, west of here. The mine expects to be operating full schedule in a few weeks. Only two mines are left in the Springfield district that are not operating.

The convict, whose circus acrobatics in prison breaks have gained for him a wide reputation, risked his life under a charged wire at Kilby prison last night and fled in a limousine with two fellow convicts and three outside confederates.

True to his often repeated boast that he never had "put a man on the spot and never would," there was no bloodshed.

A stranger approached A. G. Richards, guard at a strategic corner of the "walls" at dusk last night with word that he had been sent to relieve the guard. Instead of a promised note from the warden, a pistol was shoved at the guard. Two other men overpowered Richards and admitted to a robbery. The three men were stretched across his eyes and mouth.

A rope was thrown over the wall from the outside and Dickerson with Ivanhoe Silva, Birmingham bootlegger "king" and convicted of robbery, and Frank Cook, alias J. M. Cooley, Alabama burglar, scaled the walls. Flattening to avoid certain death, they squirmed under a high tension wire and joined their confederates in a large colored automobile. They were shot at near Tuskegee, Ala., but evaded detention.

No Solution Today of Store Robbery

No new light has been cast on the bold robbery of the Valle & O'Malley clothing store today, although police were investigating a number of clues. It was reported that new and valuable information through which it is expected to result in the probable arrest of parties suspected, was said to have been discovered this morning.

Officers Jones and Kelly both claim to have seen the young robber as he fled, scattering the stolen articles of valuable clothing in the street about 1:30 yesterday morning, but neither was able to furnish a description which would place suspicion on any one person, even though it is the general consensus of opinion that the robbery was the work of a local person, who evidently has been very active in similar cases during the late summer.

Carnes Returning
Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Clinton S. Carnes left for Atlanta, Ga., today, where he will face charges of embezzling approximately $1,000,000 from the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Church. He was arrested here five weeks ago.

GRAF ZEPPELIN ON TRIAL TRIP OVER ENGLAND

Greatest Dirigible is Back in Berlin After Long Trip

Berlin, Oct. 3.—(AP)—After paying a friendly visit to England, the new German dirigible Graf Zeppelin reached Berlin at 9:00 a. m. today.

As the huge airship soared over the city in the bright sunshine thousands flocked to the streets and saw it describe a graceful loop over Wilhelmstrasse and the newspaper row downtown.

London, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Having paid a friendly visit to a section of England frequently troubled by air raids during the war, Graf Zeppelin, new German dirigible, today was soaring toward Berlin on a thirty-six hour test flight. This will be Dr. Hugo Eckener's last long trial flight before he starts for the United States.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from The Hague said the airship on its way to England flew over the mansion at Doorn where former Kaiser Wilhelm is in exile and that the last German monarch and his family joined in cheering the passing dirigible.

The airship, staging the first Zeppelin invasion of England since April 1918, reached the Suffolk Coast Lowestoft, about 100 miles northeast of London. Inhabitants marvelled at the vastness of the dirigible as sketched in the sky by her lights. They recalled the war time air invaders when they dived into bomb proofs while searchlights and artillery raked the sky as the hostile airman flew to London to drop bombs.

SHOCK AND LOSS OF BLOOD CAUSE DEATH OF HUNTER

Joseph Fern Died this Morning at Dixon Public Hospital

Joseph Fern, 220 South Laramie avenue, Chicago, employed as a guard on the Chicago elevated lines, died at the Dixon public hospital this morning at 8:15, his death being the first hunting fatality in this locality this season. Shock and the loss of blood was attributed as the cause of his death by the attending physicians. The body was removed to the Preston mortuary where Coroner Frank M. Barker will conduct an inquest tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Fern and Harry Reichert of 907 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, drove to Dixon early yesterday morning to enjoy a day's squirrel hunting. They went to the Law farm on the River road west of the city where they obtained the permission of Frank Fassler, the tenant, to hunt in the woods. They left the farm yard a few minutes after 7 o'clock.

Less than a half hour later, Mr. Reichert returned to the Fassler home and informed Mr. Fassler that his companion had been the victim of a hunting accident, and taking his car, drove to the timber a short distance away. He returned shortly and requested Mr. Fassler to accompany him to a hospital, the injured man being rushed to the Dixon city hospital.

Pump Gun Jammed

From what information that could be gleaned this morning, it was reported that the men were walking through the timber, when Reichert's Remington pump gun became jammed. Mr. Fern was a few steps ahead of Reichert when the latter attempted to eject the shells. In some manner one of the shells exploded, the full force of the charge striking Fern just below the left knee, severing the arteries and tendons.

He suffered the loss of a great amount of blood and upon his arrival at the hospital, the physicians found it necessary to amputate the leg at the knee. The loss of blood and shock left him in a weakened condition and he passed away this morning at 8:15. Mr. Reichert returned to Chicago yesterday afternoon but was summoned to be present at the inquest which will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. At the conclusion of the inquest the body will be taken to Chicago.

exchange member loans in September was the largest monthly increase on record, and brought the total above $5,500,000,000 for the first time. This huge gain, coupled with the warnings against securities speculation by several speakers at the annual convention of the American Bankers Association in Philadelphia, caused heavy selling by frightened investors and speculators.

Commercial Solvents quickly broke 6 points, Murray Corporation, A. M. Byers and Montgomery-Ward extended their losses to 4 1/2 points and Colorado Fuel, Johns Manville, Timken Roller Bearing, Allied Chemical, General Motors and Sears Roebuck sold down 3 to 4 points.

Several large blocks changed hands in the early trading. U. S. Steel common opening with a block of 7400 shares at 156, off 2 points.

Foreign exchanges again quoted at the year's low level of $4.84.

Professional bears encountered more strenuous opposition when they attempted to press their advantage gained by the overnight budget of unfavorable news. Pools in stocks where the floating supply was under good control, acted as if all was serene and pushed their favorites up to record levels.

Murray Corporation made a spectacular rebound, coming up from 10 1/4 to 11 1/4, a record price. Ludlum Steel hit 80, Pierce Oil preferred 50 1/2 and Ree Motors 25 1/4, also all new peaks. Universal Pipe rose 3 1/4. Unconfirmed merger reports were associated with the heavy buying and concurrent strength of Mack Truck and Ree Motors. The renewal rate for call loan was unchanged at 8 per cent.

THOMPSON SAYS FARMERS SHOULD VOTE FOR SMITH

Incidentally Speaks Good Word for Himself at Kankakee

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 3.—(AP)—"Agriculture, the foundation industry of our whole economic structure, is finding itself at a disadvantage in competition with government protected and subsidized interests," Floyd Thompson, Democratic nominee for Governor, said in an address prepared for delivery today.

"The agricultural interests are seeking to remedy the situation by asking Congress to pass some sort of surplus control bill. The Democratic party and the Democratic candidate for President, Governor Alfred E. Smith, have pledged their farm relief legislation, and this pledge will be kept."

"If the farmers do not support the party and the candidate that gave them a courteous and sympathetic hearing and adopted their program, they will confirm the Mellon-Hoover view that the Illinois farmer will vote the Republican ticket no matter how he is insulted and abused, and so he can be ignored in framing party platforms and in selecting candidates."

"The influence felt in politics, they had better vote for their friends, regardless of party labels. These are national issues and I do not have time to discuss I call to your earnest consideration the utterances of our great national leader, the next President of the United States."

"As governor of this state I can be of service to our farmers by coordinating the efforts of voluntary bodies and state agencies. The state department of agriculture cannot control the weather, fertilize the soil or cultivate the crops, but it can give practical aid to the agricultural interests in this state."

ALMOST NO USE OF ARM BEFORE TAKING GLY-CAS

Says 4 Boxes of New Compound Have Completely Relieved Rheumatism of Years.

"It is really wonderful the relief this medicine Gly-Cas is giving sufferers. I do not think there is any medicine to even compare with it," Mrs. Rosa Givens, 729 N. Third St., Terre Haute, Ind., recently said. Mrs. Givens has had full use of her arm restored through this amazing new compound.

MRS. ROSA GIVENS.

"Regardless of the different remedies I tried, my rheumatism pains of the past several years were getting worse," she continued. "Finally my left arm and hand became practically useless. I lost all feeling in my arm, and I could hardly bear the rheumatism pains that ran from my shoulders into my back. Many times I had to wrap my arm in hot towels to ease the terrible misery. After this suffering, the action of Gly-Cas was like something magical to me. With the second box taken my rheumatism became less severe and at the end of the fourth box I regained use of my left arm and hand. I use them as freely now as if I'd never had rheumatism. Gly-Cas eliminated system poisons that have restored my strength and health, too. I surely do recommend this medicine to anyone."

Gly-Cas sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

ROBINSON TURNS GUNS ON CLAIMS OF PROSPERITY

Democratic Vice-Presidential Candidate is in Southwest

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Senator Joe Robinson has started off his campaign in this state by telling its voters that if he "don't puncture this Republican prosperity balloon floating over Oklahoma—well, go your own way, vote that ticket and take the consequences."

Campaigning here the heart of the rich oil region, the Democratic vice presidential nominee has declared that reports reaching him were to the effect that the oil industry has not been "very profitable in the last few years."

"You know there is no such prosperity in the oil industry," he said, "that will enable the Republican party to claim your support."

This statement, made in his address here last night, brought shouts from an audience which filled every seat in the city's convention hall and some of the crowd cried out:

"Pour it on 'em, Joe; pour it on 'em, Joe; make 'em like it!"

Robinson also claimed the farmer was in distress; that the mining industry "has labored under difficulties for many years." And that "probably more than three million workers" were unable to obtain employment.

From the subject of prosperity the Senator opened up on a half dozen other issues and told the audience that he was sorry time would not permit him to discuss all, but at Muskogee where he speaks tonight, he would touch upon others.

On religion, the Senator told the Tulsa gathering that in his opinion the "tide is turning."

"The men and women of America are fair," he exclaimed. "They are not willing to settle a campaign on religious prejudice."

THE GARDENER OF FLOWERS
He stands there musing in the soft warm rain,
Whose little feet, like sportive marionettes,
Drum on his old straw hat a gay refrain.
More sweet to him than silver flageolets.

For now the little children of his loft
Unbend their graceful necks and lift again
Their fresh and fragrant faces from the soil
And thirstily drink the long expected rain.

The lupine waves its blue and salmon plumes,
The columbine, a motley harlequin,
Whirls in a dance, and canterbury blooms,
Ethereal carillons, toll out a pean
Of silent gratitude, till even he
Lifts up his weathered cheek full gratefully.

MENU for the FAMILY

MENU FOR THE FAMILY
BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Grapes, cooked cereal, cream, creamed dried beef on toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Noodle soup, toasted combination sandwiches, hearts of celery, fig cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast pork, baked sweet potatoes, cinnamon apple rings, cauliflower in cream sauce, head lettuce with French dressing, cantaloupe sherbet, nut wafers, milk, coffee.
School children must have a hearty and nourishing breakfast with plenty of time to eat it. Adults will find that the habit of a hearty breakfast and light luncheon gives better results than a light or no breakfast and heavier luncheon.

Toasted Combination Sandwiches
Three large sweet green peppers, 1-2 pound milk cheese, thin slices bacon, 2 or 3 firm ripe tomatoes, bread, butter, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon mustard.

Pour boiling water over peppers and let stand five minutes. Dip into cold water and rub off thin outer covering. Remove stems and take out seeds and white pith. Scald and slip skins from tomatoes. Put peppers and cheese through food chopper and mix with mustard and paprika. Cut bread in thin slices and butter lightly and evenly. Spread half the pieces of bread with the cheese mixture. On top of this put a slice of tomato and cover with a slice of bacon. Top with the second piece of bread. Toast in a hot oven and serve hot.

To insure thorough cooking of the bacon drop each slice into boiling water for five minutes and boil hard. The bacon will crisp while toasting in the sandwich.

Pay Tribute to First President

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 3—(AP)—Tribute to their first president-general, Caroline Scott Harrison, wife of President Benjamin Harrison, will be paid by Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois this month.

At the request of their national chairman, all state meetings of the Daughters will be designated as Caroline Scott Harrison days.

A booklet has been compiled to further this campaign, showing a picture of Mrs. Harrison's old homestead, and a reproduction of the painting of her by Daniel Huntington as she appeared as mistress of the White House and first commander of the D. A. R. The original was presented to the United States by the national society, D. A. R., and now hangs in the White House.

Mrs. Harrison was elected president-general of the order on October 11, 1890, serving in that position until her death in 1892.

Gene Tunney And Miss Lauder Were Wed in Rome Today

Rome, Oct. 3—(AP)—Surrounded by a little group of intimate friends and in the greatest simplicity, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder of Greenwich, Conn., were married today at the Hotel Russie.

Two salons of the "Royal Apartment," normally reserved for visiting sovereigns, were used, one for the civil ceremony which was performed by Signor Brofferio, a leading Fascist, and the other for the religious ceremony performed by Monsignor Joseph A. Breslin of the American College in Rome and one-time parish priest of the Tunney family in New York.

After the ceremony a luncheon, at which there were twenty-five guests, was served, and it was announced that the couple planned to leave shortly by automobile for an unrecorded destination on their honeymoon.

Miss Lauder, who is wealthy and socially prominent, was dressed in mauve velvet trimmed with lace. She wore a silver net over her hair which gave her the appearance of a medieval chateleine. Tunney wore a blue sack suit which brought out his superb physique strikingly, a black and white tie, white spats and black shoes.

The famous Roman cerulean blue sky was at its best for "Polly" Lauder's bridal day and just when Tunney was putting the ring upon her finger a ray of sunlight shot through the window of the royal salon making it glitter for all the witnesses to see. As the religious ceremony was finished Tunney kissed his bride and then Mrs. Lauder, his mother-in-law.

At the civil ceremony Tunney's witnesses were Attorney Del Frate, a lawyer for the American Embassy who had assisted in making the necessary arrangements for a rapid dispatch of the formalities, and Leon Dominian, American Consul here, while those for Miss Lauder were Vice Consul Wesley Jones and Mrs. Thomas L. Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the American Embassy.

At the religious ceremony Tunney's witness was a friend, Dr. C. Weeks of New York, while Miss Lauder's was her sister, Mrs. Edwin Bewing.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played at the beginning of the religious ceremony. The bride and bridegroom exchanged flowers, Tunney giving Miss Lauder a bouquet of orange blossoms and receiving from her mauve roses the same color as the bride's dress.

At the lunch which followed the rites, Signor Brofferio, raising a champagne glass toasted the couple and Tunney answered in Italian, "Grazie tante," or many thanks.

American correspondents and cameramen fared badly at the hotel itself and the police regulations prohibited photographers from even approaching it. One American newspaperman disguised himself as a waiter at the wedding breakfast but was soon discovered and was forced to surrender his boiled shirt and swallow-tailed coat and take his place with the others waiting below.

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

PROPERTY RIGHTS.

By Mrs. Agnes Lynne.
Stealing is an ugly word; the thief is most harshly punished by society. Yet the thing we call stealing is natural to every small child.

Children are born with the impulse to get what they want. To refrain from doing so is something which must be learned. Sooner or later most youngsters find out that taking things which don't belong to them works out to their disadvantage. But many children go through painful and humiliating experiences before they learn the difference between mine and thine.

How should the small child know that taking pennies from mother's bag is very different from taking an apple from the bowl on the dining room table? How should he realize that taking his playmate's crayons is any worse than taking his brother's gloves when he can't find his own?

In most homes the common use of food and clothes and toys is taken for granted and the sharp edge of property rights is never drawn. This situation is a source of confusion to the child who is amazed to find that his taking pennies and crayons is regarded by his mother with much more horror and is treated much more seriously than mere disobedience.

For the child's sake it is best to make property rights in the home quite clear. His toys must never be disposed of by another. They are his to give away, to lend, or to play with as he alone pleases.

Some mothers in trying to teach their children to share, force them to give up their toys to a playmate. Not only does this forced sharing or confiscation of the child's possessions fail to achieve its purpose, but it sets a bad example by disregarding property rights. A child's toys must never be taken from him as a disciplinary measure.

He must learn that his brothers' and sisters' things must never be touched without the owner's express permission. He must not be allowed to take even an apple without first asking mother. The much desired pennies must be received as an allowance. If the child has pennies of his own he will not resort to questionable methods of getting them.

This sort of training carefully carried out will do much toward making honesty a habit long before the child is old enough to understand abstract right and wrong.

Charming Luncheon At Colonial Today

Today at the Colonial Inn the Misses Rogers and Miss Bosworth entertained with a most delightful luncheon twenty-five guests. Decorations of autumn foliage, and richly colored autumn flowers, with candles harmonizing, were beautiful. Afterward the hostesses and their guests sought the cottage of the Misses Rogers and Bosworth and spent a happy afternoon there. Last week these hostesses entertained with a similar charming luncheon and an afternoon at their cottage afterward, mention of which was made in the Telegraph at the time.

Knipple-Adams Wedding Tuesday

Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Adams, both living near Pennsylvania Corners, Ogle County, were quietly united in marriage at the parsonage of the Brethren church, 215 Madison street, by the Brethren minister, Rev. B. C. Whitmore, at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon. The double vow and the single ring pledge ceremony were used in the nuptial service. The couple was unattended. The many friends and acquaintances of the newlyweds will wish them heartiest congratulations and best wishes for their continued happiness and success.

Emmert-Green Wedding in Calif.

The following story of an unusual and pretty wedding will be read with interest by Dixon relatives and friends: Twenty friends of Miss Bernice Emmert and Lloyd Green, gathered at the home of Miss Emmert in Emery Park, Alhambra, Calif., Sept. 12th, presumably to enjoy an evening of cards. These present had an idea that possibly an announcement would be made at the home of Miss Emmert had been wearing a new diamond. However, at 10:30 a belated guest arrived, and was introduced as Rev. Keck of the Alhambra Lutheran church and an announcement was made, to the effect that the guests were present at a wedding celebration.

Immediately following this very surprising news Miss Emmert and Mr. Green appeared, accompanied by Mrs. J. Raymond Curran and Benjamin E. Thompson, as attendants.

The bride was gowned in a lovely creation of white tulle and georgette. Mrs. Curran's charming gown was in orchid. Both bride and groom of honor carried beautiful bouquets of pink roses.

The ceremony was performed before the open fire place. Pink, white and orchid roses and dahlias, made a charming bridal bow.

After congratulations and best wishes were expressed by the still astonished friends, refreshments were served. The dining room was beautifully decorated in pink and white roses and wedding bells. The center of the table held the wedding cake with its miniature bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Green is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine Thoma, and is employed in the Los Angeles Bureau of Light and Power. Mr. Green is a native son and is a civil engineer employed by the city of Los Angeles.

The newlyweds left the following morning on an extended northern trip through Oregon, Washington and Canada. They will be home about October 15th.

Mrs. Green formerly resided in Dixon and has many friends here. Mrs. J. Raymond Curran was also a Dixon resident and with her husband they have many friends here.

Birthday Party For Miss Pine

The pupils of the Primary room of the Nelson school were very delightfully entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of their teacher Miss Frances Pine, the party honoring her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Beale Gale and son, Willis, were also among the guests.

The children made the trip in a truck which was fitted with comfortable seats. They spent a happy afternoon at games, contests, etc., on the lawn. In the late afternoon dainty refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy were served by the hostess.

Miss Pine received many beautiful and useful gifts. The guests departed for their homes, all declaring they had spent a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon.

Meeting of Queen Esther-Standard Bearer Society

The Queen Esther Standard Bearer society of the Methodist church met with a picnic supper Tuesday, October second. The evening opened with a get-acquainted hour in the upstairs parlor, after which they retired to a table loaded with picnic goodies. The business hour was opened by the president, Miss Alberta Peterson. She told them of the coming work. All vied with one another to gain access to the floor. Suggestions were hurled right and left to the speaker. The treasurers report was given by Grace Plock. The members found to their delight an enormous balance to their credit to start a year hitched to a star within range of a missionary endeavor.

Plans were made for the October meeting to be held in the form of a rally the last Tuesday in the month. Dorothy Helmick, Grace Plock and Miss Wahnke were appointed on a program committee. Several people seeking admittance to the society were granted permission to be listed as honorary members. They are given a special invitation to our next meeting.

Much enthusiasm was waxed when

Fiftieth Anniversary St. Agnes Guild

Fifty years ago this month, Saint Agnes Guild of St. Luke's church was organized and began its work in the parish. This Guild has meant much to the life of Saint Luke's and a celebration in honor of its fiftieth anniversary is thought fitting. The date of the celebration is Wednesday, Oct. 10th. There will be a celebration of Holy Communion at 9 a. m. and all members of the Guild and all church members who care to attend are to make communion together.

In the evening at 7:30 there will be a short service in the church for all the parish. At this service, the new paneling in the sanctuary, given by Saint Agnes Guild as an anniversary gift, will be dedicated, along with a suitable plate.

Immediately after this service all will go down to the Guild rooms to partake of a picnic dinner in honor of Miss Caroline Bells, the founder and first president of the Guild. This will be followed by an informal program.

The committee in charge of the pleasantly anticipated event is composed of Mae R. Howell, Frances G. Hart and Rev. Richard C. Talbot, Jr.

Seventy-fifth Natal Day Was Celebrated

Mrs. Anna Grieste of Galena avenue on Sunday entertained a happy gathering of relatives in honor of her father's seventy-fifth birthday anniversary, when the children and grand children of Casper Krug assembled to celebrate the happy event. A delicious dinner was served, the table being beautifully decorated with flowers and birthday cake adding much to the festive scene. Yellow and white were the colors emphasized.

Many gifts and good wishes and the merriment of his family made the day a happy one for Mr. Krug. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Luckey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mickle and family of Ashton; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baker, Monroe Center, and Mrs. Carl Baker, Monroe Center, and many others.

Plans were made for the October meeting to be held in the form of a rally the last Tuesday in the month. Dorothy Helmick, Grace Plock and Miss Wahnke were appointed on a program committee. Several people seeking admittance to the society were granted permission to be listed as honorary members. They are given a special invitation to our next meeting.

Meeting of Queen Esther-Standard Bearer Society

The Queen Esther Standard Bearer society of the Methodist church met with a picnic supper Tuesday, October second. The evening opened with a get-acquainted hour in the upstairs parlor, after which they retired to a table loaded with picnic goodies. The business hour was opened by the president, Miss Alberta Peterson. She told them of the coming work. All vied with one another to gain access to the floor. Suggestions were hurled right and left to the speaker. The treasurers report was given by Grace Plock. The members found to their delight an enormous balance to their credit to start a year hitched to a star within range of a missionary endeavor.

TEXT FROM THE BOYHOOD DAYS OF COOLIDGE.

Visiting familiar scenes in Plymouth, Vt., President Coolidge the other day dropped in on Black River Academy, which he attended as a boy. An interesting picture was taken during the visit.

In the foreground stood the president. Grouped beside and behind him were two score or more children, sitting cross-legged on the ground or standing with folded arms, trying desperately to maintain the serious looks that the situation undoubtedly required.

Now the interesting part of that picture—aside from the fact that any photograph of children is interesting in itself—lies in the fact that Calvin Coolidge himself, a matter of 40 years ago, was a quite undistinguished member of just such a group of boys and girls. No one, looking over a group picture of Black River Academy pupils in those days, would have picked the silent Coolidge boy as a future occupant of the White House.

Likewise, in today's picture there may be concealed some youngster who will eventually rise to a place of honor, fame and power. And there is no way on earth of telling just which one it may be.

We're very proud, and rightly so, that any American boy, no matter how humble his birth, may aspire to the highest office in the nation. But that isn't the point. The point is that we never can tell in advance where the light of greatness is going to burst forth.

At this moment there is, somewhere in the country, a chubby lad in diapers and romper suit who will, some day live in the White House and rule the nation. For all you know he may be the noisy little nuisance who lives next door. Or—now don't blush—he may be your own son. Only one thing is certain about him; nobody has the least suspicion of his lofty destiny.

That is the way it is all through life. A child, and a grown man likewise, has infinite possibilities. You never know what lies under the surface.

You may know a man for years, and think him quite undistinguished and ordinary. Then some unexpected crisis comes to test him; and you discover, to your surprise, that he is a man of rare nobility and courage.

For you never can tell about people, any more than you can tell about children. They are often a great deal finer, wiser and braver than you suspected.

THE STORY OF JEB STUART.

Biographers lately have taken to a fresh consideration of picturesque figures in American history. The result has been a number of highly interesting books. From Andrew Jackson to Kit Carson, the striking, colorful men of a few generations ago are being pictured anew for us.

Before this very praiseworthy custom passes, we would like to see some clever writer try his hand at a biography of one of the most dashing Americans who ever lived—Jeb Stuart, famous cavalry leader of the Southern Confederacy.

Stuart wore a great plume in his hat and carried a shining sword. He used his cavalry as a rapier to tickle, annoy and confuse the ponderous armies of the north. His thrilling exploits were legion; time and again he rode completely around the Union army, once stopping at a federal supply base to send a telegram to the Union quartermaster general complaining that the quality of the mules furnished the northern army was very bad.

Stuart's career ended where it should have, to make the story complete. He died on the field of battle. To date we have not found an adequate biography of him—nothing to compare with Allen Tate's Stonewall Jackson, or Sir Frederick Maurice's Lee. The job needs to be done. Won't some publisher give it his attention.

Nicholas Murray Butler bolted the Republican party some time ago, and now he has bolted the Democrats. Probably just to be sure he's on the right side.

A tribe has been discovered in New Guinea that lives within the crater of a volcano. This will be read with appreciation by apartment dwellers who know how mean a janitor can be.

Helen Wills says she improved her tennis by playing against men. It doesn't seem to work out that way in bridge, however.

The result of Al Smith's visit in the west depends somewhat on whether or not he went against the grain.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The crane soon set the tool box down, and then the bunch saw Clowdy frown. "Now, just what are you peevish about?" asked Scouty. "You look mad. Why don't you smile and sing a song? You'd think that something has gone wrong. But nothing has, so please cheer up; try not to look so sad."

"I have a reason," Clowdy snapped. "It seems that once more I am trapped, and likely I will have to work. That's why I'm rather mad. You see the crane has brought a box of tools. He's clever as a fox. I'll bet he'll soon want something built, and that, to me, sounds bad."

"For goodness sake," we Coppy cried. My patience now is nearly tried. To think that you're so lazy! Why, you ought to be ashamed! These birds have been real kind to us, but even so you start a fuss. If anything goes wrong with what we build you will be blamed."

And then the crane piped up and said, "A clever thought just hit my head. I think it would be dandy if you Tinymites would make a little house where we could live. A lot of help we birds will give. Please build it of material that you are sure won't break."

A great idea, Scouty thought. He jumped right up and said, "We ought to start to build it right away. A bird house it shall be." The bunch began to run around, and shortly dandy things were found with which to make the little house as nice as it could be.

They worked away, with heaps to do, and Clowdy finally joined them too. The saws began to buzz as limbs were cut to proper size. Say, when we're finished," Carpy cried, "and you all take a look inside, you'll see a dandy bird house. It will open up your eyes."

(The bird house is finished in the next story.)

THAT INFERIORITY COMPLEX.

We find that many of the greatest men and women of history were extremely self-conscious in their early youth and it required much effort on their part to overcome this handicap. Napoleon is said to have been a shy young man. Demosthenes, the greatest orator of ancient Greece, was in his youthful days hardly able to pronounce a word that could be understood. Theodore Roosevelt was handicapped by a delicate health and shyness. In fact, the list could be continued almost indefinitely. I believe that the majority of our greatest statesmen and thinkers have at some time in their lives overcome this deficiency.

A number of people suffer from loneliness, self-consciousness, and inferiority. Persons who can not rid themselves of this inferiority complex find themselves unable to reach the top in the struggle of life, yet these people are usually gifted with a delicacy of feeling and a sensitiveness to environment which their rougher brothers and sisters do not possess and which, if rightly used could be turned to great advantage.

An inferiority complex often begins from some mental wound during childhood which brings on a lack of self-confidence. One who is troubled in this way should train himself in all of the social graces. It is a good plan to attend a dancing school and learn ballroom dancing thoroughly. By attending as many dances as possible, you will find yourself becoming more graceful and more adept in the art of repartee.

The cultivation of humor is of particular value, since humor brings on a feeling of good fellowship and evokes the opposite feeling of that of inferiority. A feeling of physical fitness is a great help to self-mastery. You should map out a regular course of physical culture for yourself, and use a well balanced diet such as is outlined in my weekly menus in the various newspapers which will furnish you all the elements necessary to good health and yet not overburden your system with toxic material.

If you are shy in conversation, you may practice the art of conversation by carrying on an imaginary dialogue about the various topics in the privacy of your own room. In this way you will learn to use and become accustomed to the sound of your own voice. You should take an active part in the conversations of your friends and interest yourself in the things which interest them. Perhaps it would be wise to join a public speaking class and take an active part in the debates whenever possible. You should assume responsibilities whenever responsibilities are offered, and accept difficult tasks in preference to easy ones.

It is an odd fact about the human mind that it can only focus its attention on one thing at a time, and if a person is thinking of himself, or of the position in which he is standing, or of his hands, he will be unable to apply his mind to the topics of conversation, and if he does the opposite, and fixes his attention upon the subject of the conversation, he will not be conscious of himself.

There are many good books on developing personality which you can obtain at any bookstore. From them you can obtain much valuable information, but the real problem lies with yourself. It is up to you to make yourself overcome that feeling

SMITH IS GIVEN GREAT WELCOME BY HOME CROWD

Governor is Pleased With Party Ticket Named in New York State

BY HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3—(AP)—Satisfied with the results of his first campaign speaking tour and the state ticket selected yesterday at Rochester, Governor Smith was back home today looking for a golf partner.

His first big task of the presidential drive to line up votes for the Smith-Robinson slate had been completed and he was anxious for a rest, and a round or two of his favorite pastime on the nearby country club links.

When the Democratic presidential nominee will start out again on the stump will be decided sometime this week. Many cities in the south, the middlewest, and border states have been mentioned for speeches on the second trip, but only in a tentative way. A definite schedule probably will not be forthcoming for several days or until the week end.

Welcomed Home.
Both at the railroad station and at the executive mansion, crowds turned out last night to welcome the nominee and his party home. Bearing torches and banners reading: "Welcome Home, you have won the west, the east is yours," a large gathering sent up a whoop when he alighted from his special train at the Union Station and many followed his automobile on foot to his home, a mile away. Here, another crowd, holding red lights and torches aloft, sent up a big cheer when the touring car, with top down and the Governor and Mrs. Smith in plain view, swept into the executive mansion driveway.

Coming from Rochester after attending the Democratic state convention, Gov. Smith said that he could not have hoped for a better ticket, with Franklin D. Roosevelt, the man who nominated him for the presidency at Houston and four years ago at Madison Square Garden, heading the slate as gubernatorial nominee.

The Governor said he believed Roosevelt, who was Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1920, would conduct an active campaign even though this, in his opinion, was unnecessary.

"As I look at the two tickets," he declared, "the people of the state will be able to make their decision without much campaigning, but they will get it anyway."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

AUTUMNAL LEAVES

"Children of the dying summer,
Oft in grief I hear ye say,
Time's, old pastor's text is mournful
For he preacheth of decay.

"Like a lone and friendless mother
Droops thy parent's blighted head,
As if mourning for her children
Lying round her pale and dead.

"Her fond arms have gently rocked ye
In the evening clear and still,
And the sun's last beam hath kissed ye
A good-night, behind the hill.

"When that sun and breeze hath wakened
You again at early morn,
All with a new joy seemed laughing
O'er some blossom newly-born.

"And when weeping dews were falling,
I have heard the great winds sweep
Through your leafy lattice, calling,
Like the deep, unto the deep.

"Now ye lie forever scattered
Like pale mourners in the blast,
Till ye come in dead convention
To your graves, and rest at last.

"Ye remind me of familiar
Children, of lives fruitful tree,
That were fair, but, fading, vanished
From the light of day, like ye.

"Nature's book of life lies open.
Man, go read the missal fair?
While the wind in her cathedral,
Like a psalmist chants its prayer.

"She will be to thee a mother,
And will hold thee on her breast
When it is, that every other
Home on earth refuseth rest."

Mrs. Charles Florabel Throop,
Grand Detour.

THE MINER'S DAUGHTER.
Dedicated to that Daughter of a Cherry miner who lost his life in the great disaster, November 13, 1909.

"On the thirteenth of November,
Nearly nineteen years ago,
Oh, how well I can remember,
Sorrow came I can't outgrow.

"Mother packed my father's dinner
In his little pail of tin,
Told him not to grow more thinner,
So to eat all food within.

"And he stole a kiss from mother
Saying, as he took his pail:
Rachel, I could love no other;
I'll be home dear, without fail."

"Something terrible seemed to smite
me,
Though I was so very small;
I clung crying to his strong knee—

Begged him not to go at all.

"But he said: 'My little sweetheart,
Please don't cry—that hurts me so;
Saying, Goodbye, makes the tears start.'"
Hug and kiss me 'fore I go."

"So I hugged and then caressed him,
And he kissed away my tears,
But his eyes I saw grew more dim
As he tried to quell my fears.

"See this ring which I am wearing,
With the crucifix upon?
More for that ring I am caring
Than if it had diamonds on.

"For my loving father wore it,
And it was my mother's gift;
Love's own message it did transmit,
Though the hearts were cast adrift.

"Father dropped this ring that morning
And it rolled upon the floor,
While I cried and was imploring
Him to go to work no more.

"Then the whistles blow, and so he
Hurried over to the mine,
But it was not Heaven's decree
That he should return at nine.

"Cries of anguish broke the stillness
As the black smoke rose in clouds,
With all its ghastly frightfulness—
Drapery for the miners' shrouds.

"Ambulances clanged, and hearses
Hurried to the shambles scene;
Doctors by the score, and nurses
Came with help to intervene.

"So we cried, and hoped, and waited
But our hopes were on the wane,
For, when fire and smoke abated
All our prayers had been in vain.

"Grief was common in this city,
Where he lived and where he died;
Every home deserved great pity,
For in each Death did abide.

"Just three weeks in lonely grieving
Mother spent. The pulse of Death
All her sorrow-pain relieving
With the feeble of her breath.

"Left alone in my affliction,
With distress on every hand,
Kind friends brought a bright tomorrow,
Life's stern trials to withstand."

ATTORNEY PROVES

THOMPSON AWFUL

Lawyer Who Helped in Prosecution in R. I.
Writes Letter

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 3.—Perry B. McCullough, chairman of the Illinois Republican State Central Committee, today made public a letter written to Louis L. Emmerson by Thomas Marshall, the Chicago lawyer who had charge of the drawing of indictments against members of the John P. Looney vice ring in Rock Island County during and subsequent to the time that Floyd E. Thompson was state's attorney of that county.

Mr. Marshall is a well-known indictment expert and was employed by Rock Island County in 1914 to draw indictments brought by the grand jury under the direction of a special states attorney. He was again employed by the State of Illinois in 1922 when the real clean-up of vice in Rock Island took place under the direction of the Attorney General. He has served as Assistant State's Attorney of Cook County and as assistant Attorney General of Illinois. In his letter he gives a graphic description of vice conditions during the administration of Mr. Thompson as state's attorney.

Conditions Terrible

"It is my duty to the electors of the State of Illinois," Mr. Marshall says, "that I say to them that the conditions that existed in Rock Island County from 1914 to 1919 while Floyd E. Thompson was state's attorney were terrible beyond the power of words to describe."

The letter in part is as follows:

"Floyd E. Thompson, Democratic

ledge of Cox who was Chief of Police; the use of police officers by Looney to make illegal arrests which he directed.

"The Supreme Court also says, referring to the Rock Island News, 'the Looney Paper, 314 Ill., Page 189 (People v. Billburg):

"The only purpose of the paper disclosed by the testimony was its use as a blackmailing sheet to aid those connected with it in collecting tribute from the underworld and gamblers."

"So far as I learned in the Grand Jury Investigation, no effort was ever made by Floyd E. Thompson as State's Attorney to stop its continuous libels and vicious assaults upon the people of Rock Island."

Friend of Tom Cox

"The Chief of Police was Tom Cox (now deceased), and the evidence before the Grand Jury showed that Floyd E. Thompson, States Attorney, had a picture of Cox hanging in his office and that he was the personal friend and political associate of Tom Cox."

Defeated Clean Up

"The underworld gang that had Rock Island by the throat in 1914 was able to defeat, in the main, the efforts of the Special State's Attorney to clean up the town. In the years that followed during the Thompson regime the records of the Circuit Court show few real prosecutions of known offenders. The evidence before the Grand Jury in 1922 showed that during the years that Floyd E. Thompson was State's Attorney, the conditions constantly grew worse and when he retired from that office the City and County had about reached zero so far as any semblance of law enforcement was concerned."

"On October 6th, 1922, John C. Looney (vice lord extraordinary), was shot and killed. That killing aroused the citizens of Rock Island to renewed effort to destroy the gang."

"A committee of business and professional men waited on the Attorney General of Illinois in Chicago and outlined to him the need for immediate action. They expressed a willingness to finance an inquiry and urged him to take charge of the investigation and prosecution."

Attorney General Acted

"The Attorney General invited me to accept appointment as Special Assistant Attorney General. I went to Rock Island late in 1922, and presented all the evidence and drew all the indictments in the clean-up of the Looney and Billburg Gangs."

"Two cases in Volume 314, Illinois Supreme Court Reports (People v. Looney, et al, Page 150, and People v. Billburg, et al, Page 182), disclose in part the status of affairs as we found them in 1922. It is impossible, within the confines of a communication of this kind, to outline in full the horror of the whole situation. As the work before the Grand Jury progressed, the jurors repeatedly told me, with shame and regret, that the conduct of Floyd E. Thompson as State's Attorney was responsible for super-government in Rock Island County."

Summary of Facts

"On Page 161, Volume 314, Illinois Supreme Court reports, you will note the following summary of facts:

"Evidence was produced by the prosecution which tended to show that there were a large number of saloons, houses of prostitution and gambling houses in Rock Island; that John P. Looney had conducted there for some years, a scandalous weekly paper, which by reason of its scandalous character and the methods which he adopted he had used successfully for purposes of intimidation, blackmail and levying tribute upon his victims. (Page 162). Evidence was introduced as to the existence, maintenance and operation of such places during the year 1922 with the know-

140 YEARS OF THE PRESIDENTIAL PARADE!

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this chapter of "The Presidential Parade" series Rodney Dutcher describes the election of 1840 in which the Whigs elected John H. Harrison in a turbulent battle.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)
Washington, Oct. 3.—The wildest, weirdest, woodiest political campaign in American history was the log cabin-hard cider battle of 1840 which tallied President Martin Van Buren out of office and installed "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too."

The victorious Whigs were purely an opposition party, with no issues, no logic, no program and not much of a candidate. The Democrats had been in power 40 years. Van Buren had been weakened by the panic of 1837, which he inherited from Jackson and the bank fight, but was stronger than ever with his party.

But the Whigs waged a campaign of "Noise, Numbers and Non-sense" and hordes of new voters were attracted.

But the year is also notable for the successful political maneuvers which beat Henry Clay out of the Whig nomination and established the doctrine of availability which has since barred many great men from the presidency in favor of comparative mediocrities.

"Rather Be Right"

The Whig convention met in a Lutheran church at Harrisburg, Pa., resolved on harmony. Clay had said that he would "rather be right than president," though few believed him. He was a distinct majority choice at the outset; he had continued to lead his party in Congress and nationally.

Thurlow Weed of New York had come determined to defeat him. New York and Pennsylvania delegates were preaching that Clay couldn't carry their states.

The anti-Clay groups arranged a series of private informal ballots, introducing the unit rule into them. Clay led in the first ballot, but after three days Harrison had been maneuvered into a majority.

Letter Plot

Clay lost because he was a Freemason. It was believed that the anti-Masonic element would knife him in New York and Pennsylvania. Thaddeus Stevens of Pennsylvania, violent anti-Mason, had plotted with Weed. Stevens had obtained a private letter in which Scott stupidly had tried to conciliate a northern anti-slavery politician. Visiting the Virginia delegates' headquarters, Stevens dropped the letter on the floor "accidentally" and left. The Virginians picked it up, read it and deserted Scott for Harrison. Harrison promised to reward Stevens with a sneered at Harrison's birth in a log cabin and the cabin with barrelled hard cider, the general's favorite drink, became campaign symbols. Brass bands led long processions of cabins, coonskins, cider kegs, brooms (to sweep clean), and everything that might be identified with "Old Tip," hero of the Battle of Tippecanoe against the Indians.

Acres of Crowds
Crowds at great Whig mass meetings were actually measured by the acre. Everyone made stump speeches, even Harrison. Congressmen sent bales of pro and anti-Harrison literature into the states. Horace Greeley established the weekly "Log Cabin." When Postmaster General Amos Kendall, head of Jackson's old Kitchen Cabinet, resigned to write for Van Buren, Whig mobs sang obscene campaign songs before his door and fired off cannon to frighten his wife and children. The mobs adopted a hundred Whig slogans.

The Democrats renominated Van Buren unanimously. They adopted a platform denouncing abolitionists and endorsing the constitution. Thomas Jefferson, equal rights (for men) and economy. The only hitch came when Vice President Johnson failed to get a two-thirds majority, whereupon the convention refrained from nominating anyone for vice president and left it to the states to pick their own in November.

The party in power had laughed at all the antics of the Whigs, calling them "animal shows." But finally they worried. Whig orators were appealing to the masses by comparing log cabin fare with Van Buren's sumptuous style of living. They ridiculed "Little Van" as a "sweet little fellow" and a "weasel." The Democrats hurled "imbecile" and "old woman" at the aged Harrison and "abolitionist" when they heard he had once said the people had a right to petition Congress on slavery.

"Fabulous Funds"
Who paid for all the noise and decorations? Well, there were no investigations. Senator Benton of Missouri wrote years later that: "The influence of the money power was enormous and exerted to the utmost, and in amounts of money almost fabulous and in ways undreamed of." Benton charged fraud in the election.

The noise increased through summer and fall and the nation passed from hysteria into delirium. Even Clay supported the Whig ticket, although Harrison's nomination had thrown him into drunken rage. Stamping the floor he had said: "My friends are not worth powder and shot to kill them."

Clay had foreseen the Whig victory—Harrison's plurality was 145,000, thus:

RECORD OF G. O. P. EXTOLLED BY ATTY. GEN. LAST NIGHT

Carlstrom Delivered Excellent Address at Decatur, Ill.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 2.—To an overflow meeting at Decatur today, Attorney General Oscar S. Carlstrom tonight praised the record of the Republican Party.

After calling attention to the progress made in Illinois over a half century of Republican administration, and asking a continuance of such a progressive and economic administration by the election of Louis L. Emmerson for Governor and the entire Republican state ticket, General Carlstrom, who is a candidate for reelection at Attorney General of Illinois, turned to national issues.

National Issues
He said in part: "No business corporation, having a capable manager will discharge him for a new and untried man who proposes to apply a set of business principles which have failed in every trial and application. Disregarding the constructive work of the Republican party for the past sixty years, I want to call your attention very briefly to a few major accomplishments of the party during the last eight years.

When the Republican party took charge of the Government eight years ago we found five millions of men out of work. Today all but a few of them are employed at good wages and prosperity generally obtains throughout the country.

Then, our National debt had amounted to the staggering sum of Twenty-billions of dollars. In less than eight years the Republican administration had reduced this debt to about seventeen billions—over a

Van Buren 1,129,000 60
Van Buren's defeat was terrific, especially in the electoral college but he had 364,000 more votes than he had against Harrison in 1836 and more than any candidate up to that time. Ballyhoo, corruption or both had boosted the popular vote 40 per cent in four years!

The significant new Abolitionist or Liberty party, having nominated James G. Burney of New York, polled 7900 votes.

Thousands of Whigs poured into Washington for the inauguration, many of them after jobs. Harrison, refusing a carriage, rode down Pennsylvania avenue on a white charger. All the log cabins and coonskins and cider kegs were brought on for the jamboree. The inaugural parade marched up and down the avenue for two hours before depositing Harrison in the White House.

After that, the jobhunters began to pour into the White House and a month later Harrison had died in the rush.

TOMORROW: How the dark horse, James K. Polk, galloped out of obscurity.

billion dollars a year. This alone results in reducing our interest obligation over three hundred millions of dollars annually.

Expenses Reduced
By the application of strict economy and a carefully applied budget system, the running expense of the Government has been reduced from six billion, eight hundred millions annually to a little less than four billions. Operating expenses cut to approximately one half of the sum required under the closing peace years of the Wilson Administration.

"Government bonds which under the last year of the Wilson Administration were selling at $85.00, are now above par.

"This wonderful record during the past eight years, has not happened by chance, but is the result of Republican principles applied to the business of Government.

"You remember the deflation which ruined the farmers during the closing days of the Wilson Administration. The attempt of history to repeat itself under a Democratic Administration, with over five millions of men out of work. A condition largely caused by the application of the Democratic Underwood Low Tariff Bill, placed on the statute books under the Wilson Administration, which had its first opportunity at the close of the war to demonstrate again the Democratic fallacy of a low tariff.

Passed Tariff Bill

"With the coming of the Republicans into power, they at once passed the Fordney McCumber High Tariff Bill, which had been vetoed two years prior by President Wilson and which was denounced on the floor of Congress by the Democratic leaders. This legislation, before the close of the first year, opened every factory in this country and put back to work over four millions of men and women throughout our land. This act brought work and prosperity to two-thirds of the People of the United States, increased the buying power of the great masses of laboring people of whatever kind, which helped tremendously to make a home market for the products of the farm, greatly helping to retrieve the farmer from ruin.

"The operation of this high tariff, kept foreign countries from flooding the American market with foreign made goods, provided work for American boys returning from the World War to peace time pursuits, placing them in a position to buy the products of our farms and factories.

"The Republican Party came to the rescue of the farmer with emergency relief, passing the War Finance Corporation Act, over President Wilson's veto, which provided money at low rate of interest and on easy terms for the farmers who were caught with an increase of five million acres in wheat production, with a like expansion all along the line in grain and stock production. This board loaned in all, $690,278,000.00 to the farmers and stock men, saving their business from utter ruin and bankruptcy.

"The fourth great boon to business during the recent regime of the Republican party has been the accomplishments at the head of the Department of Commerce of our nominee for the Presidency—Herbert Hoover.

Praise For Hoover
"Due to his vision, great organization ability and energy, we have pioneered the world opening up markets for the exportation of every article of American Manufacture and the products of the farms. Herbert Hoover alone, has done more for the farmer in the extension of world trade than any other one man in the Nation. For the first time he has developed the Department of Commerce into a great business crusading organization for the extension of world trade. The figures tell the story best.

"Our export business, under the reign of Herbert Hoover as Secretary of Commerce, have jumped from $2,730,000,000.00 in 1922 to $4,750,000,000.00 an increase of 58 per cent. Think of the hundreds of thousands of men and women employed in the manufacture of this great increase and the hundreds of thousands of tons of the products of the farm, all of which have found a market in foreign countries, the result of the matchless energy and ability of this great American Builder and statesman, Herbert Hoover.

"During the World War, when the European Nations, which were later our Allies, pooled their buying, beating down the price of wheat to $1.50 per bushel to the American farmer, it was Herbert Hoover, the one big leader of our Country who saw the peril confronting the American farmer and who had the courage and power to come to his rescue. At his suggestion, President Wilson by an Act of Congress, established the Fair Price Commission, composed of leading farmers and agriculturists through the country who fixed the price of wheat, raising it from $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel. The late President Wilson and every living member of that Commission have gone on record that Herbert Hoover never suggested or tried in any way to advise the Commission in the fixing of the price which at that war far above the then present price and which as a war measure was considered fair and just.

"At the close of the war, due solely to the efforts of Herbert Hoover, he held the price of farm products up for a year, remaining in Europe at his own expense, and had it not been for his efforts to save the farmer from ruin, the price would have crashed quickly after the signing of the Armistice, completely ruining the farmer who found himself with large acreage and a heavy production at the abrupt closing of the War. Hundreds of millions of dollars worth of farm products found a market in Europe through the efforts of Hoover to save the patriotic farmer whom he said helped as much as anyone to win the war.

"Herbert Hoover is the man this nation needs today. He will give an outstanding domestic and world leadership to this country due to his large experience and his great ability.

"The election of Herbert Hoover will quicken into renewed activity our resources and national energies.

New Pastor Humboldt Church is Suicide

Humboldt, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Rev. R. I. Ilk, who arrived here for his first sermon at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday, was found dead today in the parsonage wood-shed. His throat had been cut, and a razor lay at his side. He had left his wife to shave, and an hour later she found his body. No reason for the act could be learned.

Rev. Ilk, who was 50 years old, traded pastorates with the Rev. R. T. Meyer, former minister here. Mr. Ilk came here from Windsor, Ill.

THIS SONG HOT

STUFF IN 1840

The most famous presidential campaign song is that of 1840, when the Harrison-Tyler ticket defeated President Van Buren. It went to the tune of a song called "The Little Pig's Tail," and the chorus ran:
"For Tippecanoe and Tyler, too—
Tippecanoe and Tyler, too;
And with them we'll beat little Van, Van,
Van is a used up man;
And with them we'll beat little Van."
It was hot stuff—in 1840.

cabinet job, but Stevens never got it. With the nomination of Harrison and Tyler of Virginia, the Whigs began their great orgy of ballyhoo. They had no platform and they dared not oppose the Democratic doctrine of non-interference with slavery, but they sang, shouted and paraded to victory.

Monster parades were held everywhere. Some fool in Congress had

It is essential that my car should always operate properly and accordingly I use Champion Spark Plugs.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sili-manite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrodes which assure a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

Beginning October 4th and every Thursday thereafter the Champion Sparkers will broadcast over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company from 8:30 to 9:00 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

McILVAINE OIL BURNER

Tests at Armour Institute Prove It Burns Less Oil

The McIlvaine Oil Burner proved its superiority by the most rigid tests at the Armour Institute of Technology in point of simplicity of construction, ease of operation, over-all boiler and furnace efficiency and fuel economy. The heat efficiency of continuous flame was found to be 11.1% higher than intermittent operation.

For real comfort and health you need an even supply of heat. In the McIlvaine the flame burns constantly—moderately. It is not turned on and off. Your house does not alternately heat and cool and heat again. It automatically keeps an even temperature in your living rooms at all times.

The only flame in the McIlvaine is the oil flame. There is no pilot light—no electric ignition—no intricate starting and stopping devices to get out of order.

A noiseless motor-driven unit supplies a positive feed of air and oil regulated by the McIlvaine Air Shutter and Oil Control Valve. These features are not found on any other burner.

Its absolute dependability has been thoroughly demonstrated in all types of heating plants in large and small homes of various constructions. See this quiet, clean, economical oil burner at Revell's—operating in the basement salesroom under the same conditions as in your own home.

An experienced heating engineer will gladly explain the McIlvaine exclusive principle of continuous flame and controlled mechanical draft and oil feed. Please feel free to thoroughly inspect this burner and ask any questions. You will not be obligated in any way, asked to buy, or annoyed by salesmen.

THE McILVAINE GUARANTEE
The McIlvaine Oil Burner is Unconditionally Guaranteed for One Year. It will be removed at any time within the first two months operation and your money refunded if it does not give absolute satisfaction.

New Prohi Uniform Might Have Averted Ohio Tragedy

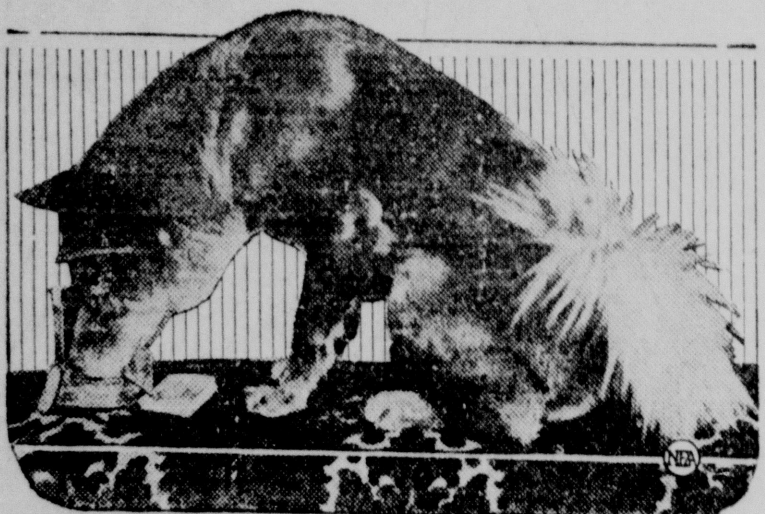

If the three dry officers at Lorain, O., who shot Betty Heyward, 22, when they fired on an auto in which she and her father were riding home, had been wearing the new caps and badges provided for federal dry agents, the tragedy might have been averted. Commanded to halt, the driver feared the three men standing in shadows beside the road were highwaymen and sped on. The new regulation cap and badge for federal dry officers is shown above, together with the Lorain officers who were jailed after the shooting. In the top inset is Dry Agent Frank Kady; below him, Agent Walter Knitter and the small inset shows Agent Louis Cicco. They were members of Mayor Standen's local dry squad at Lorain.

Six Thousand Pounds of Shark

"A whale of a shark!" said Captain Huga Paladini, master of a Pacific Coast fishing trawler, when his crew hauled aboard this 6000-pound shark after a five-hour battle 250 miles off Point Reyes Calif. Twenty shots were fired into its body and the fish leaped as high as 30 feet out of the water several times during the struggle.

An Ashtray That Can Bark

Richard Kaden of Cleveland has the strangest ash tray in the country—it can wag its tail and bark! Here's a picture of it. It's Kaden's blooded chow, which just dotes on eating cigaret and cigar stubs and ashes. She not only eats all that fall on the floor, she even goes around now and then and cleans out the ash trays, as the picture shows.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

THAT a store should be a selling place—not a storage place.

THAT stores that accumulate many "shelf warmers" are out of luck. It's usually their own fault; they should not try to place the blame elsewhere.

THAT profits are made when goods are sold. Many merchants seem to forget that fact.

THAT goods must not only be bought right, but must be sold right.

THAT advertising through the printed page is the greatest sales creator known.

THAT everywhere in every line of business, advertising is making real friends for those who advertise.

THAT well advertiser goods are goods of known and proven value. They have won the confidence of the public.

THAT dealers, awake to the demands of the public, never try to substitute for quality. The consumers can't be fooled with unknown goods.

WELL ADVERTISED LINES OF GOODS NOT ONLY MAKE CUSTOMERS, BUT GAIN THEIR GOOD WILL AND THEIR FUTURE BUSINESS.

Valerie's hostess tells them they will find her at a notorious roadside on the Post Road. They go there directly, and arrive in time to interrupt an interesting conversation. Valerie's escort is telling her how once he loved a girl named Sybil.

At which her sister-in-law is talking, the man with her turn white as death.

"Where did you come from?" he asked.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

PERCELYN Sybil turned on Eustis. Quietly then, and thoroughly she lashed him with her tongue. Castigating him with words that cut with exquisite cruelty. And through it all he sat like a man stricken with dumbness; who, being condemned, could find no voice to answer his accuser.

"Dar! Dar!" Frenziedly Valerie besought him. "Oh, Dar! why don't you SAY something. Dar! DON'T let her talk like this!"

Helplessly he threw out his hands.

"Drunk, Valerie, for days and nights on end. Idiotically, disgustingly drunk. . . . Worthless. Irresponsible. . . . Without morals, or decency."

"Oh, Dar! WHY don't you say something?"

"Because there's nothing he CAN say, Val. And you poor little fool. Oh, God help Tad! WHY did he marry you?"

Then Valerie was crying, softly, into a foolish little handkerchief.

"Come on, Valerie, let's get out of here. Jack Moore and Mabel are waiting for us."

"Sybil!" Richard Eustis put out his hand. Entreatingly. Agonizingly. Furiously she struck it away.

"Go to hell!" she told him hoarsely. And her voice, with hatred, was coarse and rough.

She snatched at Valerie. "You do what I tell you! Ask him now to take you away with him tonight. Or come with me now—and tell him you will never see him again so long as you live."

"Dar! Dar!" he gazed at her incoherently. Impotent before Sybil's rage. And, to wit:

YANKEES DISPLAY NO WORRIES EVEN THOUGH CRIPPLED

Cardinals, the Favorites to Win Series, are in
Grim Earnest

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Oct. 3—(AP)—A squad of badly crippled New York Yankees will start the world series with the St. Louis Cardinals at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

With a more or less definite announcement from Huggins that Earle Combs, injured centerfielder, would see action in the big series only as a pinch runner, if at all, Yankee stock dropped to a new low. The odds most frequently today favored the Cardinals at 5 to 3. There was little betting, most American League partisans preferring to wait for even longer odds.

The Cards in their practice at the Yankee Stadium, where the series opens at 1:30 Eastern standard time tomorrow, have had no time for jokes. They go about their business in grim earnest, impatient for actual conflict to begin.

Yanks Not Worried
The Yanks on the other hand, act as though they have not a care in the world. "If Combs and Pennington are out, and Lazzeri, Koenig and Ruth crippled, the American League title-holders appear untroubled just the same.

The rival manager are reticent as usual as to their pitching selections for the opening game but they'll cross up a lot of expert observers if Waite Hoyt does not start for the Yankees and "Wee Willie" Sherdel for the Cardinals.

Provided these pitching choices go through, Haffes and Phipps probably will be matched in the second game at the Stadium on Friday, with Alexander and Zachary rival moundsmen in the third game at St. Louis on Sunday.

Despite precautions by the Yankee management, speculators have gotten hold of some of the precious tickets and are peddling a $16.50 series of three games for $50 and up. With all reserved seats gone and 40,000 general admission tickets on sale the day of the game, a crowd of 75,000 or more is expected at the opening game.

Anderson Dealt Ace's Hopes Blow

Los Angeles, Oct. 3—(AP)—Ace Hudkins' middleweight championship aspirations were farther from realization today than they were last June when he essayed to lift the crown from Mickey Walker in Chicago.

The Nebraska Wildcat was decisively outpointed here last night by Joe Anderson of Kentucky, who pummeled the Nebraskan all over the ring in a 10 round fight. Hudkins' first since Walker defeated him. Anderson was credited with six rounds, one being even.

The Wild Cat came out of the battle with face badly slashed, the result of well placed blows to the head.

News From Grid Camps of Large Schools of West

Chicago, Oct. 3—(AP)—Orange juice and psychology may be a boon to Bob Zuppke's fighting Illini in their effort to repeat as Big Ten football champions, but at Northwestern chocolate malted milk is Coach Dick Hanley's training selection.

With practice sessions continuing long after the dinner hour under the glare of flood lights, Hanley has decreed that all players shall drink malted milk immediately after leaving the field. Orange juice still remains the piece de resistance for after practice tid-bit on warmer evenings. The malted milk-orange juice diet supplants the eggnog of last season, which was not so successful as a training diet if the record of the Wildcats is any criterion.

Hanley is driving his men at a fast clip to iron out the defects before the opening encounter with Butler Saturday.

Injuries having cut inroads on Notre Dame's host of backfield material, the starting lineup against Wisconsin Saturday remains very much in doubt. The South Bend grid camp became more gloomy yesterday when Bernie Leahy, a triple threat back, and Savoldi, a husky sophomore, were forced out of practice with injuries.

Sheriff to Attend

World Series Games

Sheriff Ward Miller was one of a very few Dixonites who have been successful in securing seats for the world's series games to be played in St. Louis next week between the Cardinals and the New York Yankees. The sheriff asked for a reservation of six seats for the Sunday and Monday games, but was cut down to two of the much sought after ducats. He will leave for St. Louis Saturday afternoon, returning home after Monday's game. Several others from Dixon who wrote for reservations have received the discouraging news that their requests cannot be granted because of the complete sell out.

FOUR CHAMPIONS REMAIN IN NAT. PRO GOLF MATCH

Al Espinosa is Picked to Meet Hagen in Semi-
Final of Tourney

BY F. G. VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baltimore, Oct. 3—(AP)—They're picking Al Espinosa, of the Chicago Espinosas, to emerge as the final round opponent of Walter Hagen, in the current National Professional golf tournament in which "The Hag" is after his fifth consecutive championship.

Since back in 1923 when Gene Sarazen beat out Sir Walter in the final for this same crown, the little Italian has been rated as the special nemesis of Hagen in this particular tournament—and so it may prove. But if Carazzen is to beat him this time it will not be in the final round. They are both in the lower half of the draw and will meet in the semi-finals if they get that far.

Espinosa, playing par golf and occupying a place in the upper half where the competition is not so stiff, is a stand-out to come through to the finals. If that is the way that things eventually work out, Hagen will have a struggle on his hands well worthy of a champion as meeting Sarazen and Espinosa on successive days, especially the way the latter had been playing here, is a worthy test for any man.

As for Sarazen, he underwent one of the sternest of testings yesterday in coming from behind to beat "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn 3 and 2, and another tough hurdle lies directly ahead in the lank person of "Long Jim" Barnes, the producer of the nearest thing to an upset in the first rounds of match play yesterday, when he trimmed Tommy Armour, 3 and 2.

Incidentally it might be noted that just four men have won this Professional Golf Association fixture since it was started in 1916—Hagen, Sarazen, Barnes and Jack Hutchinson—and the entire quartet still remains in the tournament.

Little World Series

Resumed in Indiana

Indianapolis, Oct. 3—(AP)—Rested by two days idleness, Rochester and Indianapolis, winners respectively of the pennants in the International League and the American Association, today were cocked to go in the fifth game of the little worlds series here. The contest was set for 2 o'clock Central standard time.

The local club had an edge on its eastern rival, with two victories and one defeat. The other contest ended in a tie. Today's game will be the first played in Indianapolis.

Cubs and White Sox

Open Series Today

Chicago, Oct. 3—(AP)—The baseball championship of Chicago became the goal of the White Sox and Cubs today in the opening game of the 1923 city series.

The White Sox, who have won 11 of the 15 series played, were defenders in the opening game to be played at Comiskey Park. No series was played last year. The team taking four or a possible seven contests will win the title.

WISCONSIN GAME COMMISSION HAS ISSUED WARNING

Discovers Rabbits in that State are Afflicted with Disease

Rabbit hunters, be careful!
This is the warning that comes from the Wisconsin conservation commission just before the opening of the rabbit season because of the discovery that some rabbits in Wisconsin have become infected with the disease called tularemia. Just how general the infection of rabbits is cannot be stated, but it will be well to be careful while dressing rabbits.

Tularemia is an American disease, discovered here, and almost entirely confined to the United States, although some cases have been reported in Asia. The disease affects the spleen and liver of rabbits, producing decay of the tissue of these organs. Its presence can be detected by the many small white spots or blotches on the liver and spleen of an infected rabbit.

Man contracts the disease readily while dressing rabbits. The infection passes from the rabbit's liver through sores or cuts in the person's hand and thence through the entire system. An ulcer at the spot of infection is usually the first result, followed by an enlarging of the glands at the elbow and armpit and a fever that confines the stricken person to bed for two or three weeks.

Wear Rubber Gloves
The wearing of rubber gloves while cleaning rabbits is said to be an absolute protection. Eating the meat from an infected rabbit is not harmful if the meat is well cooked as a temperature of 133 degrees kills the infection.

Tularemia was first discovered in Tulare county, Calif., from which it derives its name. This was in 1910 and Dr. G. W. McCoy of the United States Public Health Service made the discovery. The disease became engrafted into the jack rabbit population of the West, and then, as a disease of rabbits and of man, it steadily advanced across the continent, invading state after state until now, in 1923, there remains only a

LABOR
Hoover Is the Best Friend Labor Ever Had

Hoover never had a strike. For years he was in charge of vast mining operations involving thousands of men. He never forgot the human element. His first consideration was to provide for the men adequate wages, decent living conditions, sanitary habitations. Before Hoover ever wielded the power of an executive, he had earned his living as farm boy, as office boy, and as miner. He pounded a drill, shoveled ore, and pushed a hand car for eight hours a day or night. Hoover knows the hardships of labor, and the far greater hardship of unemployment.

It was at Hoover's suggestion that the President in 1921 appointed a conference of labor leaders, economists, and business men to attack the problem of unemployment. When the conference began, there were millions of idle men. In three months industry was picking up and men were finding employment. Hoover understands the laboring man's problems from the inside.

A FIVE-CENT CIGAR

you can really enjoy

IF YOU smoke for pastime, most any cigar may often do. But if you want a cigar that really puts taste enjoyment into your smoking—and saves you money besides!—here's one that will do it: Havana Ribbon. And this is why:

Havana Ribbon contains no bitter under-ripe top leaves of the tobacco plant. No flat-tasting over-ripe bottom leaves. No "clippings" or short ends to crumble and come out in your mouth. . . . But only long, true-tasting, flavor-laden, fully-ripe middle leaves of choice tobacco plants.

You naturally expect such tobacco in a higher-priced cigar. But have you ever heard of such a thing in a five-cent cigar? Isn't it just about the biggest piece of smoke news that has ever come before you? No wonder today's Havana Ribbon is riding the biggest wave of popularity in all the thirty years it has been on the market! At cigar counters everywhere.

My winning Saturday's game by a 7 to 6 count, the United States became the favorite to take the second match at Meadow Brook today although it was generally expected that the encounter would be as close and hard fought as the first.
